10 International Hotels with Spectacular Art Collections

By Stacey Leasca on August 07, 2018

Now you can check out priceless works without ever leaving your room.

Getting to travel means getting to experience the rich culture and history of a new destination. Often, that includes visiting area museums to shuffle along with the masses to view works of art and artifacts left behind long ago. But, if you're more of a private viewing person, you're in luck.

Hotels around the world are waiting not only to welcome guests to spend a night or two but also to come and experience some remarkable works of art as well.

From Impressionism to contemporary, pop art to artifacts, and everything in between, these ten hotels are displaying it all. And the best part is viewings for guests are free. All you have to do is book a flight and a night.

Philadelphia: The Logan Hotel

The Logan Philadelphia is covered in wall-to-wall art. With more than 1,800 one-of-kind works, guests can spend weeks inside and still not see it all.

Each piece is curated by Kevin Barry Fine Art to showcase the artistic heart of the city of brotherly love. Works of photography, textile, paint, and sculpture include Hombre de Hierro by Miguel Horn, Join or Die by Morgan, and Crew, a collaborative piece by Traction Company artists. Rooms from $324.
